Daily Fashion Talks BY MAY MANTON

CHARMEUSE WITH EPOUGE.

Design by May Manton
1707 Blouse with Front Closing, 24 to 42 bust.
7708 Four-Piece Skirt, 22 to 32 waist.

COMBINATION of smooth materials with rough are among the smartest of all things this spring and this gown can be utilized both for street and for indoor wear. Filled, a little chemise can be worn. The front closing, the panel of the skirt and the overhanging edges are all made of the same material. The trimming of buttons and simulated buttons is fashionable too. Altogether the gown is a most desirable one. The sleeves are set-in at the long shoulder line and are fitted with darts at the inner elbows that allow freedom. The skirt is made in four pieces with a wedge-shaped panel at the front. There are seams at the side only, for, at the front and back, the edges are overlapped. Figure-faithful and so attractive in combination with plain color, or two-toned effect would be pretty and cotton crepe is perfectly suited to the design.

For the medium sized girl waist will require 3 1/2 yards of material, 27, 34 yards 16 or 44 inches wide, with 34 yard 27 inches wide for the collar and cuffs; the skirt will require 5 yards 27, 34 yards 36 or 27 1/2 yards 44 inches wide, with 34 yard 27 inches wide for the panel.

The May Manton pattern of the people of 1707 is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure. The skirt 7708 from 22 to 32 inches waist measure. They will be mailed to you on any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents for each.

STRANGE FORMS OF GREETING.

The kiss, the hand-shake and the bow are the salutations that are in the most universal use at the present day. Yet there exist many other forms of greeting which seem as ludicrous as their own customs seem to us. In this connection the Review of the University describes some curious customs that the people of various lands observe when they greet one another.

The prostration and the salutation that many Orientals use, are only more pronounced forms of the bow. So there is a connection between the entrance, so common in civilized countries, and the greeting of a member of the Korai tribe of British New Guinea, who, in saluting a missionary, placed one arm about his neck and stroked him under the chin.

Among the Maori and the Eskimo it is a mark of respect to greet an acquaintance or a stranger by spitting at him. Almost as strange is the custom ascribed to the Tibetans of saluting one another by the use of a stick. The Burmese and many tribes of the Eskimos, Laplanders and Malays do so. Strangers than any of these customs are the greeting which has been ascribed to the Indians. This form of greeting occurs, too, in the Adaman Islands, New Zealand and Polynesia. A French explorer describes the custom as he used it among a tribe of South American Indians:

"Whenever a guest enters a hut he is immediately honored and made welcome by being seated on a mat. Without a word being spoken he is led to the hammock. As soon as he is seated the hostess and her daughters, and any of their friends who happen to be in the house at the time, come and sit about the guest, touch his face, stroke his fingers and commence to weep loudly and to shed many tears. During this ceremony, in a sort of connected discourse, they recite everything that has happened to them recently, and talk of the hardships of the road and of anything and everything that can arouse compassion and tears. The guest, his hand before his face, pretends to weep, and does not speak

FRENCH DRAMATIC SOCIETY TONIGHT

Will Present French Version of "The Two Orphans" at the Lyceum.

Patrons of the Lyceum theatre who saw "The Lion and the Mouse," as presented by the Toronto players at the popular Jasper Avenue stock playhouse last night, will recall with pleasure the excellent performance given by Mr. Aylmer's troupe. They will be glad to hear that the play presented in even better form than was the case last year, with all the wealth of scenic and costume equipment that characterized the original production as presented in New York by the late Henry B. Harris.

For this week "The Two Orphans" could scarcely be improved upon as a dramatic offering. Every member of the troupe is well cast, and the details of the settings and costumes are positively startling and speak well for the new direction and planning of the new director of this organization, Harry Cook.

At the Lyceum tonight the local French drama stage for one night only, and will offer for one night only in the French language the same play as is being played by the Toronto players in English.

PRISON WARDERS ARE OVERWORKED AND UNDERPAID

Irish Officers Memorialize Lord-Lieutenant That They Are Overburdened With Work.

Dublin, Oct. 16.—The prison wardens of Mountjoy have memorialized the Lord-Lieutenant, complaining that they are overworked and underpaid. They urge that the kindness of the lords of the city's population has resulted in overcrowding the prison wardens with work. They claim they were overworked and underpaid before the labor troubles. Now they say they are absolutely swamped.

"Whatever has been the condition in other businesses," the wardens add, "Europe, at any rate, has been booming. Dublin is the dearest city to live in in Europe, but while the wages of other have been advanced, ours have remained at the same standard. If we are driven to declare a sympathetic strike, it would not be pleasant for the government— even though we could take the same lines followed by the labor union."

Next Week:

When the curtain goes up at the Empire theatre next Monday afternoon, the theatre-goers will see revealed before them for the first time an artiste whose fame has been spreading all over the world because of her inherent ability not only as a dancer, but an actress of proven worth as well. Mlle. Barle comes to England to give a series of performances which have been the first ballerina in Oscar Hammerstein's first London grand, opera houses, which is excellent proof of ability in this line. Her story of her life and her career is a featured number of the cast, presenting "Ranaldou," the greatest vandyke venture of Sir James Matthew Barrie. It is a story of the life of a famous old Scottish trumpeter, acted in a thoroughly comic manner.

He is a true entertainer of the world, and a few more that the realm of harmony never heard of before. His piece de resistance is the song "The World Is My Oyster," which he sings with a flourish.

He is a comedian who can make things about Barnes is that he changes his monologue and songs each year, and audiences that have seen him before will find him very different. He was a fairly new performance in the year A.D. 1907 to Canadians. Mando Odelle is as well known as Stuart Barnes. TWO HUNDRED M.C.A. BOYS ENJOY BANQUET

Interesting Function at the Institution Last Evening—
Medals Presented to Winners.

When 140 boys gathered at the Y.M.C.A. boys' banquet a year ago, it was thought that the limit had been reached, but last night the opening banquet for the season 1912-13, 200 boys crowded the banquet hall and overflowed into the main boys' room—some even taking up their positions on the stairways. The tables groaned under the weight of delicious food provided, and some idea of the provision made may be ascertained from the fact that when the 200 boys had been fed, and the fragments had been gathered up, several baskets full still remained.

The hall was decorated in the colors, draped from the ceiling, pictures of boys' division activities lined the walls, and pennants representing practically every city between the Atlantic and Pacific were displayed throughout the room. The boys were grouped according to the schools they represented, and the employed boys by the particular group to which they belonged.

Between courses proceedings were enjoyed by school boys, starting off with the "Zephyr" Boston, the high school and finishing off with the Y.M.C.A. "cherry de rive" on massed.

Former Representative James E. Watson, of Indiana, who heatedly denied the charges made before the Senate Judiciary committee by Colonel Martin Mulhall, who accused Watson of having been employed as a special representative to look after the interests of members of the National Association of Manufacturers in Congress.

The secretary was given ten minutes in which to outline the plan of organization for the department, which consisted of dividing the boys into groups of ten with adult supervisors, in order that each boy might get individual attention. One boy will be elected from each group in a boys' council, which will meet monthly in the interests of the division work.

Mr. Ward, the general secretary, made a happy two-minute address in which he said that the banquet next year would be held in the Y.M.C.A. as it had not overlooked the supper room.

Mr. H. A. Seely, who leaves shortly for Japan, spoke on his trip to the new field, and promised a monthly letter to the boys division, dealing with the work among the boys of Japan.

Medals were presented to the winners of the south side and north side leagues, and Edmonton boys' basketball league, and south side boys received a handsome silver cup emblematic of the city championship, having defeated the north side winners in the past season series.

During the evening, Mr. McGrover, the popular lecturer, rendered two selections which were very much appreciated.

Mr. Cameron rendered a very "Pat McKay" of the boys' division, for his selections on the mandolin were very effective, and the assembly members which were expressed by the rhythmic motions of the feet as they beat time to the music.

BOILS ELECTRIC STEEL FURNACE

First of its Kind in Canada Starts Operating at Toronto.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—The first steel manufacturing plant in Toronto, and the first electric steel furnace in Canada, started work yesterday, and is turning out steel castings at the rate of about two tons per day.

For five years, James A. Moffatt and T. C. Irving, Jr., have been conducting investigations, and experiments. Within the last few months they claim to have got the manufacture of steel in an electric furnace to such a point that it can be carried on on a commercial basis.

The iron ores of Canada are for the most part low grade magnetites, which cannot be used economically in the blast furnaces on account of the low iron content, and to be of any value they must be crushed and then concentrated magnetically.

Tests show, it is claimed, that the steel turned out is of a good quality and possesses a high tensile strength. It is also claimed that it is free of blow holes, slag and gas pockets, and of a uniform density.

FIRE DESTROYS STUCCO FACTORY

Robert Klein's Establishment in Nechamman Destroyed Entirely.

Robert Klein's monumental stucco factory on Naima avenue in Nechamman was completely destroyed by fire at noon today. The building, which was a two-story structure with a single front entrance, was quickly consumed by the fire, which had made good headway before the alarm was turned in. The fire broke out in a room at the rear of the building, and spread rapidly to the main entrance.

Robert Klein is at Lake Le Normand, a distance of 100 miles, and it was impossible to reach him just as the disaster struck. It was stated at his home that the building and contents were insured.

SCULPTURE WILL EXALT AMERICA'S WORK AT PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION; COLOSSAL GROUPS OF STATUARY DESIGNED BY WORLD'S NOTED SCULPTORS

The sculpture of the Panama-Pacific Exposition will carry out the theme of the exposition in celebrating the opening of the Panama canal. The spirit of achievement as exemplified by America's work at Panama will be idealized in the work of a number of America's greatest sculptors, who have completed many of the models. These are now being arranged to prefigure the sculpture in the exposition grounds.

The statue is being executed upon a vast and wonderful scale. In its complete representation of the plastic art, it will carry forward the work of the great exposition of the past, each of which has marked a distinct advance in the popular appreciation of sculpture.

The sculpture is designed to form a sequence from the moment the visitor enters the exposition grounds to the dominating architectural feature of the exposition, the 400-foot Tower of Jewels, which will be decorated with much sculpture of a purely ornamental character, as well as the repeated figure of an armored horseman.

The figure of "Hain" is one of those that will be placed over the entrance to the Court of Four Seasons. Various figures will adorn the buildings, one of the most beautiful of which is to be the Festival Hall, situated in the center of the exposition grounds, where the celebration of the world will be held.

BURNING TRAIN MAKES RECORD RUN

Run Sixty Miles an Hour to Reach Adequate Supply of Water.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—With the roof of one of the passenger cars completely destroyed in flames, the Canadian Pacific railway's New York express train, No. 36, made a run from Hamilton to Port Credit today, before it could stop at a station with a sufficient supply of water to extinguish the fire. Shortly after the express had left Hamilton the fire was discovered behind the engine and the train was stopped at the time the coach was filled with passengers and when the flames suddenly burst into view they made a rush to the rear of the train, where the engine was running at a speed of over 60 miles an hour. The crew succeeded in clearing out the car without any person being injured and in removing the baggage without damage.

Port Credit is not a regular stop for the C.P.R. trains, but as a large water tank is installed there for the use of the Grand Trunk railway engine, the conductor decided to run to that point and use the water supply to extinguish the fire.

PARLIAMENT MAY CONSIDER FUTURE OF WOLFE'S HOME

Plan Presented for National Board of Trustees to Care
For It.

MEMBERS OF GOVERNMENT WILL BE INTERVIEWED
Should Be Maintained as Noble
Lesson in Patriotism for Future Generations.

London, Oct. 15.—The anniversary of the capture of Quebec was quietly celebrated at Westminster recently. Mr. Joseph L. Leatham, of Montreal, who has purchased Quebec house, the early home of Wolfe, and Mrs. Leatham went down from London and placed a wreath of flowers on Wolfe's statue in Quebec square, which was decorated with the Union Jack and Canadian flags. Among the other wreaths was one placed by Mr. A. Wolfe-Aylward, one of the few remaining connections of the great soldier, who resides at Westminster.

Asked if he was in a position to make a definite statement regarding the disposition of Quebec house, which he has offered to Canada, Mr. Leatham intimated that nothing definite could be said until the dominion parliament meets, when he will elicit the views of the members of the government. He bought the property because he felt that it was most suitable that it should be vested in the Canadian people and become a national possession; and he considered that it should be removed from any chance of falling into the hands of those who would not have sufficient regard for its historic associations.

Suggests a Trust Committee.
At the time he made the purchase an American was negotiating with the owners; another proposition was to turn the house into an hotel, and a third prospective purchaser intended to dismantle the house and ship the fine oak paneling, mantel and stair cases to the United States, selling the house and grounds. When the house is decided to the Canadian people Mr. Leatham desires that it should be placed in the care of a board of trustees consisting of Premier Borden, the Hon. Mr. White, minister of finance, and Lord Strathcona, high commissioner, and that the trust should be handed down to the successive holders of these offices.

Since Mr. Leatham has been in England he has purchased a great many objects associated with the life of Wolfe which, added to those he has in Montreal, will make a very fine collection. It is understood that Wolfe's sword and sash which repose in the Tower of London, and the portrait of Wolfe as a boy, painted by Benjamin West, which is now at Kensington palace, will be available should it be decided to form a museum of Wolfe relics at Quebec house, and some advocates of this proposition believe that it will be possible to secure from the colonial office Wolfe's last despatch to Pitt, which created such doubt in England until removed by the news of the capture of Quebec three days later.

Literary Loan Collection.
These hopes are, however, unreasonable. It is unlikely that such national possessions will be placed in a country house where measures of protection cannot be as effective as in their present home; but copies of the despatches and other Wolfe documents and letters could be obtained. Mr. A. Wolfe-Aylward, a member of a branch of Wolfe's family who traces some of the most intimate relics of Wolfe, particularly the dressing gown in which his body was brought to England, is willing to loan his collection.

Some of Mr. Leatham's recent purchases are very valuable. He has just secured one of the rare prints of the disposition of the forces at Dettingen. Wolfe's first engagement in the "Plan des campagnes." In other articles are associated with campaigns in Ireland and Scotland. He emphasizes the point that the purchase should not be regarded from the view point of being Canadian or French-Canadian, but that it is British-Canadian. He desires to have hung in Quebec house a portrait of Montcalm as well as of other French officers engaged in the siege. In the hall he proposes to hang portraits of the King and Queen, with the royal arms, the Duke of Connaught, the Hon. Mr. Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Lord Strathcona, with the arms of Canada.

Foundations of Canada.
Wolfe and the courageous Montcalm he says, fully appreciated each other's gifts, and as it was out of their struggle that the foundations of modern Canada were laid, he considers it proper that both sides should be represented in Quebec House, if only to point to the fact that today both nations live in unity and union.

The purchase has aroused great enthusiasm. In this country, more especially, as so many historic relics have been acquired by Americans. Mr. A. Wolfe-Aylward urges that Mr. Leatham's action might well be followed by other wealthy men. He says:

"It would be difficult to imagine a more inspiring memorial to the memory of any great man than the preservation and dedication to the public of the house wherein his early days were passed and character formed."

Every Weak Throat Quickly Strengthened And Bronchitis Cured

Breathing Remedy, Which Cures
Without Drugging.

The country is fairly well over the wonderful recovery that throat sufferers are making every day with Catarrhose. From ocean to ocean come letters telling of rapid cures and cures when the complaint was chronic and long standing. It's a brand new type of relief which Catarrhose works—not a single dose of medicine to take—nothing to upset the stomach or spoil digestion.

You can breathe through the Catarrhose Inhaler medicated air that is full of healing, soothing balsams, full of pine antiseptic essences that resemble the air of the pine woods in the Adirondacks. The pine vapor has a truly marvelous action on weak throats. It brings strength and health to the bronchitic, stops that hacking, irritating cough, prevents hoarseness and difficult breathing. You can't find anything for weak-throated people on earth more beneficial than Catarrhose. It means heaven on earth to the man that has had bronchitis, catarrh or throat irritation. You will realize that the first time you use Catarrhose, which is a scientific preparation specially designed for diseases of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes. more inspiring memorial to the memory of any great man than the preservation and dedication to the public of the house wherein his early days were passed and character formed.

A Public Spirit in Action.

Through the munificence of Mr. Leatham, an enthusiastic Canadian, the historic home of James Wolfe at Westminster has been offered to the nation, and it would be strange indeed if such a public-spirited act were not to meet with the whole-hearted reception it deserves.

"We have not in this beautiful country of ours, very many villages which can boast of having been the birthplace of great men—men whose deeds have shaped the destinies of nations. We have not in this beautiful country of ours, very many villages which can boast of having been the birthplace of great men—men whose deeds have shaped the destinies of nations. We have not in this beautiful country of ours, very many villages which can boast of having been the birthplace of great men—men whose deeds have shaped the destinies of nations."

Noble Lesson Of Patriotism.
"Let us hope that the years that are to come, the memory of these great men may be kept green. May future leaders, as Lord Roberts recently has pointed to their fine example, and teach generations yet unborn the noble lesson of patriotism and self-sacrifice which they possessed."

"But nothing that can be said or done will get nearer to the heart of things, than to glance at that grey old cabled Elizabethan Manor House, the old grey home that Wolfe loved, and which must have been often in his mind, when little more than a lad he left his native village behind to do his country's bidding."

"Should such a collection as referred to be organized, it would give me pleasure to loan the collection of Wolfe relics belonging to me, some of which were personal belongings, and came to me through my ancestors, his descendants."

WOMEN TO CACKLE 1,000 YEARS HENCE?
A French woman has just made a claim to the woman of a thousand years from now. She will cackle instead of talk. A man of 1913 could not possibly understand a woman of 3013. But man in general will have been slowly accustomed to the change in the course of the centuries, so that the dreadful catastrophe will not burst upon society entirely unprepared. If the historians of London is the sponsor for the dismal forecast. And the learned modern woman, claiming that she is paving the way, slowly but surely, she is wrecking the vocal cords of her sex by abusing them shamefully. Even now, he says, to overbear any feminine chat at random is to be conscious of a cackle that could give points to the noisiest of hen yards. And it is toward this same cackle that the voice of the softer sex is drifting.

A number of different causes are given as responsible for this change. Our soft voiced mothers and grandmothers did not have to make themselves heard in the modern transportation buses, elevated trains, and street cars. This strain tears the voice to pieces, and renders it shrill and hoarse. Then, too, he blames the all talking-together habit. It is responsible for half of the screechy voices heard today. Other women draw their lips back like fish and let the under lip drop in a snort of point, makes the voice thin and muffled.

In order to clear and strengthen the vocal cords, he advises breathing the throat every day with cold water, and gargling it well where the tonsils are placed. But, he adds rather dubiously, that all the advice in the world really won't help much—few women just won't take advice.

There are as many children of American parents at work under the age of 16 years as there are children of immigrants. In Canada the average wage of industrial workers is only $418.60 a year, and $992.25 the average wage of managers, superintendents and foremen.

Austrian unions with a total membership of 428,363 include 50,416 female workers. A new Oregon law requires eight hours' work on all state and municipal work.

CAPITAL ROAD RACE TO BE RUN OCTOBER 20

SECOND ANNUAL RACE FOR CAPITAL CHALLENGE CUP THANKSGIVING DAY

New Five Mile Course Selected Which Will Take Runners Over High Level Bridge—Prospects Good for Big Race—Other Prizes Beside Cup.

The Daily Capital's second annual five-mile road race will be run on the morning of Thanksgiving day, October 20, at 11 o'clock. The race will start from the Daily Capital office on Second street and run over a new course this year, which will take the runners over a route never traversed in the history of the world by a road race, for it will cross the river on the high level bridge. The course selected, which will be given in detail later in this article, is a spectacular one in that it traverses much of the main traveled thoroughfares of the city. The permission of Chief of Police Carpenter has been secured to do this, and it is thought it will make the race more exciting and will enable more people to view the runners.

The Capital's annual road race was inaugurated last year and proved to be a great success, there being a large number of entries and an exciting race resulting, the winner, George Nelson, lowering the Alberta five mile record.

The winner of the race is awarded the Capital Challenge Cup, which must be won three years, not necessarily consecutively, to secure permanent possession. Nelson may not be able to defend the cup this year, but there are plenty of runners who will compete. From present indications it will be one of the biggest road races ever pulled off in Edmonton.

Because of unavoidable circumstances it was thought for a time that the race would not be run on Thanksgiving day this year, but it would be put on later, but it has been found that it will be possible to run it on that day, and, although the time is short in which to prepare for it, the Capital has decided to put the race on at that time. Nearly all of the runners who are intending to enter the race have been preparing for this race, thinking that it was to have been run on Thanksgiving day, so that there will not be need of longer notice for preparation.

The race will be a handicap, and Geo. R. Jackson, supervisor of playgrounds, will, assisted by others whom he may select, have complete charge of the race and will fix the handicaps.

Among the runners who will probably enter this year are: Y.M.C.A.—Stewart, Armstrong, Hall, Dunham, Worcester, Harlow, Sharp, McFarlane, Dylthe, police—Mildon, Wuttance and Foster. These are the only names that have been mentioned thus far, but the number of entries will probably double that amount, as there will likely be several runners from the Varsity and other athletic organizations.

DAILY CAPITAL ROAD RACE ENTRIES FOR 1913.

Sixteen runners lineup at the start of the race last year in front of the Capital office. The race was a fast one the Alberta record being lowered by the winner, George Nelson. The finish was close and exciting and thousands of people watched the runners speed over the course.

As the race will be a handicap, the finish will be closer and the result uncertain, so that one runner has just as much opportunity of winning the cup as another.

There was some talk of changing the race to a 10-mile run this year, but instead it has been decided to give the runners a more difficult course and hold the distance down to five miles. For this reason the new route has been selected, which Mr. Ward, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., and others interested in athletics in the city think will be an ideal one for a race. The course will take the runners down the McDougall hill and up the Strathcona hill. These two hills will give the contestants an opportunity to show what is in them, and will put some real "cross-countryness" in the race. The course mapped out is one which can be watched from many places in the city, and it will be interesting to follow the runners in the stretch across the high level bridge. When this point of the race is reached all of the runners should be visible at the same time to those standing on either side of the river.

It is being arranged to have a straight-away of three blocks for the finish, the runners to go to McKenzie avenue and double back on Second street to the Capital office to the tape.

The work of laying out the course will be completed today, and it will be announced definitely in tomorrow's Capital just what the exact course will be.

Entries for the race will be held open until 7 o'clock p.m. Saturday, October 18.

Aside from the Capital Challenge Cup, which goes to the winner, there will be four other prizes—a medal for the winner of the race, medals for second and third men, and for the runner making the best time in the race. As it is a handicap event, the men making the best time may not be in first, second, or third places.

On the opposite page are further details of the big race, with blanks for filling out entry forms.

Watch the Capital for further details.

Philadelphia, Oct. 16. — Edward Halpin, in a pocket billiard match with Morris Fink here last night, made what is claimed to be a new record for a consecutive run when he pocketed 73 balls straight. The best run at pool balls straight, 55, made by 22. Allen in Boston in 1899, while the highest previous run under the new rules is said to have been 59, made by Dr. Brown. Halpin won the game by the score of 19 to 21.

REDMOND MAY NOT PLAY IN EDMONTON

Has Received Offer to Marry Team in Canadian League and May Accept.

Jack Redmond, the speedy second baseman of the Edmonton baseball team, has received an offer from a town in the Canadian League to play for them next year, and the Edmonton team may be deprived of the services of the valuable second sacker.

Because White and the Edmonton fans have been congratulating themselves lately on having Redmond's consent to perform his own best year, and they will be sorry to see him leave.

He has not decided definitely to accept, but states that he is seriously considering the matter.

Redmond was one of the best all-round players in the Western Canadian league last season, leading his team in batting and leading the league as a second sacker.

McGovern and Young Corbett, Once Enemies, Now Friends.
It will be just seven years tomorrow that these two famous rivals, "Terrible Terry" McGovern and Young Corbett, fought their last battle in the ring. This was in Pittsburgh, on October 17, 1906, and the bout went six rounds to a draw. The Quaker City meeting was the third and final public appearance of the little fighters, but it was not their last ruckus. Some time after that Jim Corbett sought to play the role of peacemaker, for McGovern and Corbett continued to hate each other when both if they didn't behave, early gave a feed and invited the enemies to be the guests of honor, eat and drink together, and bury the bloody shirt. They agreed, shook hands upon meeting, and all went well for a time. Jim Corbett was congratulating himself upon being a regular league tribunal, when the guests of honor began talking about their battles. One word led to another, and Terry intimated that Young Corbett had won only by accident. The favorite jumped up later responded. Victory. Lieutenant Jim separated the combatants before much damage had been done, and threatened to play them both if they didn't behave. Terry was finally restored, and ever since McGovern and Young Corbett have been friends and pals. They are now implicated
